

UNEARTH THE HISTORY ON YOUR LAND with the Hessle History Hunter

Ever wondered what history lies beneath your feet in your garden or on your land?
Now you can find out with the help of a local historian and metal detectorist!

If you have an old house with a large garden which might have some historical significance, work at a venue with some private open space, or own some local farmland, get in touch!

The Hessle History Hunter is a fully insured member of the National Council for Metal Detecting, active with Hessle History Society and has significant experience of investigating major local historical sites in Hessle and nearby villages, discovering interesting artifacts and researching the mysteries unearthed.

The Hessle History Hunter can:

- Tell you about the history of your site, including sharing any old maps or photos
- Metal detect for anything of interest under the surface
- Return personal items whilst splitting any major finds equally
- Always neatly replace any holes dug without damage to vegetation
- Remove any litter found along the way!
- Be hired to find lost items such as jewellery or a child's favourite toy!
